Oregon Training Series on Direct Support

We have an exciting series of trainings planned for direct support providers in 2010! The series includes two half-day video conferences that will be broadcast live at sites around the state. These trainings will feature two nationally-renowned speakers as well as local facilitators who will lead participants in structured activities and discussions. You can choose to attend the trainings in Salem at Chemeketa Community College where the presenters will be speaking, or at a more convenient local site.

In addition, the series will include regional trainings on topics developed at the local level. Watch for announcements about these trainings.

From Clienthood to Citizenship—Creating Community With Natural Supports and Generic Services Kathy Snow

February 12, 2010

Isn't it time for people with disabilities to move from clienthood, isolation, and dependence in the system to citizenship, inclusion, and interdependence in the community? It can happen! During this presentation, you'll learn how to recognize the natural supports and generic services in your community, identify the strengths and interests of persons with disabilities, and then connect the two. When individuals are connected to others based on their similarities, great outcomes are possible, including new friendships, employment opportunities, and more!

Kathie is the author of "Disability is Natural: Revolutionary Common Sense for Raising Successful Children with Disabilities" based on 17 years of experience as a public speaker, trainer, and consultant on disability issues. She is the parent of a young man with developmental disabilities and was a popular keynote speaker at the Oregon Conference on Direct Supports. Her mission is to encourage new ways of thinking about disability and to help create a society in which all people are valued and included.
